EXPANDING YOUR HORIZONS

Shining a Spotlight on Student Volunteers

For the coming Expanding Your Horizon Conference scheduled February 23, 2019, our student volunteers are from National Honor Societies at Kerr High School (Alief ISD) and Stratford High School (Spring Branch ISD). Typically, over 50 volunteers take time from their Saturday to help us, while earning service hours towards their NHS goals.

The NHS volunteers assist in moving the presenters' workshop materials into and out of the classrooms, as well as assisting when and where needed. They also help with group control, distributing lunch boxes, collecting survey sheets and many other tasks. Our middle school girls' conference could not run as smoothly without the help of our many volunteers, who are courteous and polite throughout the day, a partnership through the years.

Brenda Moss, Student Volunteer Coordinator

AN EYH VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITY....

We will work on folders for the students and teachers on Wednesday, February 20, at 9:30. This usually takes about two hours. If you are new to AAUW, this is a fun way to meet people and help with a good cause. Please contact Pat Dach, patdach@gmail.com, if you are not already on her list and are able to help.

BAKER-TELFER NEWS

Each year AAUW-WHC membership supports local scholarships to encourage young women that are interested in careers in the STEM fields. Maddie Moudy was one of our 2018 recipients. I recently received a thank you note from her:

"Dear AAUW Members,

Thank you for giving me the generous Baker-Telfer Scholarship. I'm enjoying my first semester at Baylor and I am on the pre-med track. I used a portion of the scholarship money to buy books and I have some left for next semester. I also really enjoyed going to the luncheon this past summer. Thanks again.

Best regards,

Maddie Moudy"

Pat Dach, Baker-Telfer Scholarship Chair

Happy Hanukkah

PUBLIC POLICY

Motherhood and Pay Inequality

It is a known fact that women of all races and educational levels earn less money than men of comparable backgrounds. Workplace discrimination has been considered the main factor.

Recent studies suggest other factors play a significant role. A series of articles* indicate that having children may adversely influence the gender pay inequality. The articles demonstrate that in both the United States and Europe the gender pay gap between men and women is small until the first child arrives. Then women's earnings decline and their career path slows and in many cases drops. It never recovers. In the long term, a woman will earn 20% less than her male counterpart over the course of her career. Having children was associated with 40% of the total pay gap in 1980, but now accounts for 80% of the total pay gap, the articles state. Discrimination and other factors make up the remaining 20% of the pay gap. Child care, particularly in younger years, is a time consuming responsibility. Someone has to do the work. It's usually the woman.

Public policies such as paid leave, working at home after having children, and part-time work options are helpful initially. But these policies take women out of the work force and shorten their hours at work and consequently reduce their competitiveness. They don't seem to work as intended. If men participated equally in these generous policies we might see change. But they do not.

Women who become mothers begin to gravitate toward particular jobs. They look for jobs with fewer hours and consequently lower wages. Many seek employment in the public sector. These jobs usually offer flexible working hours and leave days when children are sick. In other words, women gravitate toward family-friendly jobs. Their chances of moving into high paying jobs declines.

Why does the motherhood penalty exist? The articles offer two possible explanations. First explanation put forth is an environmental one. Social norms make it hard for mothers to stay in the competitive workforce. Public opinion data shows that most adults believe that women with young children should not hold full-time jobs. In addition the perception within the working community is that women are the primary caregivers to children and as such are unable to give the time needed for performing certain jobs. Second explanation is biological. Women may have a strong preference for spending more time with their children. Given that statement, perhaps parents have reached an uneasy decision to split child care unevenly. How can we remove the motherhood penalty? Can it be achieved if both men and women share the responsibility of caring for children, not just women?

More research is needed.

CULTURAL ACTIVITIES

Houston Chamber Choir Christmas Concert at the Villa de Matel

There are just a few tickets remaining for our planned return visit to the Houston Chamber Choir's annual Christmas Concert at the Villa de Matel on Saturday afternoon, December 8. However, if you had hoped to join us -- and/or bring a guest -- for this always popular holiday event, all is not lost. Contact Barbara Butler at 713.305.0570 or barbarabutler1959@att.net to see if there are still any places available or to be put on a wait list pending any last-minute cancellations.

We will travel to the chapel via our usual Precinct 3 bus, but because Memorial City Mall's parking is at a premium during the holiday season, we'll leave from the parking lot of the Memorial Drive Presbyterian Church, corner of Memorial and Blalock, instead of our usual mall location. Departure will be promptly at 2:15 p.m. We expect to return about 6:00 p.m.

Cost for this year's concert will be $33 and you can claim your ticket now by sending a check in that amount payable to Barbara Butler at 13719 Carriage Walk Lane, Houston 77077. Given the early response, however, it's probably best to contact Barbara first to be sure there's still an opening before sending your check.

Plus, save Wednesday, January 16, 2019, for "Multi-Media Day" -- Tours of KPRC Channel 2 Broadcast Studios and The Printing Museum.

This inside look at both the latest in broadcast and earliest in print media should be an enlightening adventure in terms of discovering how we learn about what's going on around us. Watch the January newsletter for details, but if you want to be sure not to miss out -- this trip is limited to the first 20 who sign up -- contact leader Pat Farnell at 832.867.2908 or farnellpat@gmail.com now.

BYWAY BIRDERS

On December 8, the Byway Birders will be visiting Bear Creek Park and Paul Rushing Park. We will meet to carpool at the old Sam's Warehouse at Highway 6 and I 10 at 8:00 AM. There will be a brief stop at the Randall's at Barker Cypress and Clay for Starbucks, then on to Paul Rushing. Diana Tiberia is the contact person, dltiberia@att.net, Cell: 832.866.8411.

GARDEN DIVAS

The Garden Divas will be visiting Discovery Green, a 12-acre park located in downtown Houston, on December 11. Tree-shaded walks lead to a tranquil pond while grassy slopes offer postcard views of downtown. Come decked out for the holidays and capture the moment for your holiday cards – (or at least a new Facebook profile picture!).

This village green was created by a group of visionary philanthropists who transformed a pair of uninspiring parking lots into a vibrant 12-acre park that now hosts over 700 free events for more than 1.2 million visitors annually.

Discovery Green is currently showcasing GUST; Celebrating a Decade of Discovery, a kinetic field of color along the park's Brown Foundation Promenade. Commissioned by the Discovery Green Conservancy's Public Art Committee from Mexico City-based design collective Cocolab, the interactive, site-specific artwork brings to life the invisible patterns of the wind with vivid color, subtle motion and patterns of light.

Inspired by simple celebrations of community, and by folk traditions of hand-made art, GUST aims to provide a joyful gathering place for people to come together, to feel and see the breeze, and to play. Intended to be playful and interactive, GUST also invites you to “be the wind” and make the pinwheels turn and spin yourself. GUST will be on view from November 16, 2018, to March 20, 2019.

We will dine in the informal elegance of The Grove restaurant. The all-glass exterior overlooks a gathering of live oaks, offering visitors a peaceful, upscale ambiance in the heart of Houston.

Meet for carpooling in the Memorial City Satellite Lot South of Sears. We will leave at 9:30. To RSVP, please email Susan Boone - smboone@gmail.com.
